Born in Campbell county, Va., June 19, 1827, Dr. Dinwiddie just passed his veventieth birthday. Graduated at Hampden-Sidney College in 1855, he entered the University of Virginia in 1855, taking the degree of A. M. in June, 1861. From the university he entered the Confederate service as a member of the "University Volunteers," was soon promoted to lieutenant and subsequently was made assistant adjutant-general of the brigade assigned to the Wise Legion. His company, of which he was first lieutenant (after the "University Volunteers" were disbanded), and he had joined the Charlottesville artillery, joined Stonewall Jackson's corps in the Valley of Virginia, remaining with that command until after the battle of Fredericksburg. He was then promoted to a captaincy in the artillery and assigned to prednance duty in Richmond. At this time he was made major of the infantry, serving in that capacity until the close of the war. the close of the war. He was married during the war to

How to Exercise the Bowels

OUR Intestines are lined inside with millions of suckers, that draw the Nutrition from food as it passes them. But, if the food passes too slowly, it decays before it gets through. Then the little suckers draw Poison from it instead of Nutrition. This Poison makes a Gas that injures your system more

The Fate of Poverty

By SAMUEL JOHNSON.

Other selections from this author, his portrait, autograph and biographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.

By numbers here from shame or censure free, All crimes are safe but hated poverty. This, only this, the rigid law pursues; This, only this, provokes the snarling muse. The sober trader at a tattered cloak Wakes from his dream, and labors for a joke; With brisker air the silken courtiers gaze, With brisker air the silken courtiers gaze, And turn the varied taunt a thousand ways. Of all the griefs that harass the distressed, Sure the most bitter is a scornful jest; Fate never wounds more deep the generous heart, Than when a blockhead's insult points the dart. Has Heaven reserved, in pity to the poor, No pathless waste, or undiscovered shore? No secret island in the boundless main? No peaceful desert yet unclaimed by Spain? Quick let us rise, the happy seats explore, And bear Oppression's insolence no more. This mournful truth is everywhere confessed, Slow rises worth, by poverty depressed.

This series began in The Times-Dispatch Oct. 11, 1903. One is published each day,
